

“Selfocracy” ... defined as:

“Governance which primarily focuses on encouraging & rewarding human selfishness.”

At first glance Selfocracy might seem like a great idea, having the ring of “freedom”. However, human self-centeredness & greed thrive un-encouraged; with focused encouragement the result is:

Worshipping at the Altar of Selfishness which evolves to
Self-Worship
by the winners.

“Occupy Wall Street” hoped to peacefully curb our excesses, to no avail. My perception is that the national leadership of the U.S.A. has become a Selfocracy; I’ll welcome events that prove me wrong.

The future actions of both Selfocracies and Theocracies are both very dangerously unpredictable; my favorite historical examples:

Selfocracy: England’s “Opium War” against China. (1839-1842)

Theocracy: The 4th Crusade - Christians bashed Christians. (1201-1204)

Theocracies offer plausible, tangible, sufficiently-disciplined ways to fight back against the excesses of Selfocracies; we’re in that fight, eh?

The PhilosophyWorks®
Lakeville, Minnesota, USA

© 2012 by Jeffrey M. Setterholm

<http://ftp.setterholm.com/Philosophy/Selfocracy.pdf>

This page may be reproduced, in its entirety, without permission.